MADE IN AMERICA

Yes, made in America; this slogan carries with it power and efficiency and is the recognized standard of up-to-date production the world over and we, as Americans, are proud of it. At one time before the European war, "made in Germany" was a trade mark that carried an under current of confidence in trade, that made it easy to market their output, not so today—things have changed, and our people begin to realize that we can and do produce the best in the world. All this was forced upon us by the inability of Europe to supply our demands. This forced the brains of America to get busy and get busy she did, and the result is an ever increasing demand for goods "Made in America! Who furnishes munitions of war? Who furnishes a large proportion of the war equipment, including automobiles and motor trucks, clothing for the warring nations, and in fact the whole requirements are made in America, by Americans—in American factories and we pay American wages. Our American mechanics are thrifty and industrious and our factories are beehives of activity, not solely on account of war orders but on general principles are up and doing, always ready to meet any demand. Go to any manufacturing city and you are favorably impressed with the homes of the mechanics; the churches, schools and parks, all bespeak of thrift and all bear the marks "Made in America."

Our own city is not immune from the infection, our mills and factories turn out a large quantity of goods Made in America.

We are growing a developing nation, when we cease to grow we die, that is why foreigners cannot understand why we are eternally on the move, digging up the streets, putting in sewers, building railways. This eternal eruption and change is what makes it America. Americans can not give an order to have a city ready and then move in and enjoy it—and leave it alone. No they must push on, make improvements and keep every one busy. Whether it effects his nerves or not, that cuts no figure because it is American, and when in America one must do as Americans do.

When election time comes do we go to a fine building with a full quota of livered attendants to cast our ballot? Well I should say not. The American wants to go to a barn, a garage or a barber shop, to cast his ballot, he wants nothing made for him, he wants to make everything for himself, and enjoy the fruits of his labor. We see and admire splendid mansions with their beautiful lawns, with all the luxuries that wealth can supply—and no doubt the occupants enjoy all this comfort and we are glad if they do, but when we want an alderman or a president we go to a plain frame dwelling on a side street—a house put up maybe with funds from an American building and loan association, a house which bears earmarks of daddy's tinkering with the blinds and storm doors, whose windows gleam at night with the yellow light of the kerosene lamp and whose fire shines bright through the isinglass of the parlor stove whose cheap but tasteful curtains have been draped by mother's busy fingers, whose panes may bear the marks of little faces and fingers pressed to the glass waiting for daddy's coming. We know they are not artistic and we are glad of it, but houses of this sort, are the kind we go to when we want a man to serve us.

We are awe struck with a mansion's regal magnificence but we rarely put our affairs into the hands of its "master". We have a fear that he does not understand us and our requirements and we want no "master", but the man who has come up, the man who has inherited nothing but courage and a stout heart with good will power and a good disposition, the man whose home may have been built with building and loan funds and added to as prosperity warranted. This is the man we seek when we want a reliable public servant. His house may be crude, its lines may give pain to the fine tastes of artists but it is his own, into it has been wrought his hopes and ideas. Crude it may be, but it is sincere, what there is of it is his; if it have straight lines and white paint and green blinds, they express the open frankness of American life, they have not borrowed, they are his, that is why we like them.

All this to show the sincerity and confidence of the strictly American mind. It leans toward independence is willing and ready to take on conditions that will prove beneficial, and adopt any honorable method to better environments; but, be it understood we are strictly original, create our own ideas, and consider the other fellow for comparison only. And when we say, "Made in America," it stands for honor, truth and justice—and the time will come when the world will acknowledge—the significance of "Made in America."

What Is An Editorial?

Probably never before in the history of journalism have editorials been more widely read, which means by the same token, that never before have newspapers exercised so wide an influence. The editorial is an expression of the newspaper's belief or sentiment. To be of any value, it must have behind it the paper's reputation for fearlessness, truth, and fettered incorruptibility. Without these, the influence of the editorial is nullified before it reaches the printing press. The newspaper's first duty is to give the news. Its second duty is to comment on the news—show toward what end the news is tending, whether political, educational, social or religious, crystallize the sentiment in its particular community; in regard to that tendency, and finally, to give its own honest, unbiased opinion. The editor's duty is a sacred one, and he should be fully alive to its responsibilities. His opinion on any subject should be given only after serious study, but, when it is given, it should be frank and above board. No one else is bound to think as the editor thinks, but the editor's opinions go down in black and white and he ought to have good grounds upon which to base them. Those reasons, expressed in the editorial, make it valuable. In fact the editorial stands or falls because of the reasons it sets forth showing how the editor arrived at his opinion. The "fighting editor" is usually a man of deep thought—one who bases his opinions on solid foundations and is willing afterward to come into the open and fight for them.

Center of Population

For more than a century a careful calculation has been made every ten years to fix the exact center of population. When the census was taken in 1800 the center of population was found to be near Annapolis, Md., well east of Chesapeake bay. A decade later the center had moved to a point just above the city of Washington. Throughout the history of the country the population center has moved steadily westward at the rate of about 100 miles every ten years. The center of population of 100,000,000 lies in Illinois near its western boundary. In another decade it will probably cross the Mississippi river.—Christian Herald.

The North Carolina Orphans' Association

Whereas, our kind Father above has blessed us with peace and plenty, and in recognition of this, the President of the United States and the Governor of North Carolina have set apart Thursday, November 25th, 1915, as a National Thanksgiving Day; I Zadok Paris, President of the North Carolina Orphans' Association, do respectfully ask every citizen of North Carolina, irrespective of color, politics or religion, to set apart one day's earnings to be sent on Thanksgiving Day, to the Orphanage of his choice, or some needy Orphan in his community.

Z. PARIS, President,
Lincolnton, N. C.

J. Elwood Cox Chairman National Bank Section

New York, (Special)—J. Elwood Cox, of High Point, N. C., was chosen chairman of the executive committee of the national bank section of the American Bankers association which met here today for the purpose of completing organization and mapping out work for its future activity. The meeting was largely given up to a discussion of legislative matters pertaining to the federal reserve system and its relation to the national banks.

This high honor coming to our townsman is a source of gratification to his countless friends in social and business circles. It is the highest honor in the gift of the bankers of this nation and is an acknowledgment, without solicitation, of Mr. Cox's ability as a financier. Only recently Mr. Cox was made a member of the executive committee at the Seattle session. The bankers of the South and especially of North Carolina are jubilant over the honor just conferred upon this splendid gentleman and citizen, who is at the head of the Commercial National Bank, of this city, one of the strongest in the state. Having made a fine success in his every undertaking, and his counsel always sought on matters of importance, Mr. Cox is thoroughly capable of carrying out the duties of the high office to which he has been selected with credit to the organization and the business it represents. Accept sincere congratulations, Chairman Cox.

High Point, Route No. 3

The nice rain of the last few days was greatly appreciated by the farmers of this community.

The new roller mill installed by Mr. Chilton, the owner at Freeman's mill, is running on full time.

Scales Eldridge of Glenola has moved to this neighborhood.

J. W. Smith, of Greensboro, visited at D. M. Hohn's Sunday.

Mr. Gladstone and Miss Mamie Coltrane attended the county meeting of teachers at Greensboro Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Joe L. Kirkman and son Lois and the editor and family spent a very pleasant day Sunday at the hospitable home of Mrs. Flora Payne, seven miles in the country. It is always a pleasure to visit our rural friends where the old southern spirit of chivalry and hospitality is kept alive to the gratification and blessing of our Southland and where these beautiful qualities of heart and hand are so manifest at the homestead of our friend—Mrs. Payne.

The Low Prices at the Home

We call your attention to the advertisement of the Home Furniture Store in this issue where during this month you can buy furniture at a big reduction. You will lose if you don't see Manager Welch this month.

Also picture framing is a specialty with this store. All kinds of mouldings and pictures to select from or if you want to furnish the picture, alright.

Better visit the Home if you want to save big money.

Furniture Men Meet

The Southern Furniture Manufacturers Association met in Greensboro last week. C. F. Tomlinson of High Point and F. S. Lambeth of Thomasville were elected vice-presidents and J. T. Ryan of High Point re-elected secretary and treasurer. The past year's business together with the future outlook was considered very gratifying.

Work on placing a new front to the Beeson Hardware Co. is now in progress.

CASE AFTER CASE

Plenty More Like This in High Point

Scores of High Point people can tell you about Doan's Kidney Pills. Many a happy citizen makes a public statement of his experience. Here is a case of it. What better proof of merit can be had than such endorsement.

Mrs. C. R. Lee, 613 Willowbrook Ave., High Point, says: "Three years ago I was in pretty bad shape with my kidneys. My back ached, so severely that I could hardly endure the misery. I was lame and stiff and couldn't straighten without catching hold of something. I did not rest well at night as it was hard for me to turn over in bed. The action of my kidneys was irregular and my nerves were unstrung. I doctored and tried different medicines, but didn't get good results and I began taking Doan's Kidney Pills. Three boxes gave me great satisfaction. When my back bothers me now, I take Doan's Kidney Pills and they live up to the claims made for them.

Price 50c, at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mrs. Lee had. Foster Milburn Co., Props., Buffalo, N. Y.

Ken Curlee who is now living at City Point, was in the city this week.

MOTHERS AND GIRLS

Did you ever stop to think how perfectly delightful it must be to be able to carry on a conversation and entertain people of culture? Those of us who do not enjoy the thrills of easy conversation know what a drawback it has been to our social life—and how difficult it is for one to keep the heart and mind alert with real or imaginary things of general interest. If you wish to learn the proper way to carry on a conversation and make your talk interesting, sensible and valuable, we suggest that you read Woman's World. This publication will tell you how to converse with ease. It is a magazine published for women. You can get this magazine and three others with The Review all one year for $1.18. See announcement elsewhere.

Another Evidence of ... Progress ...

Two Wonderful New Machines, That Add, Subtract, Make Statements and Do Bookkeeping, Added to the Equipment of the Commercial National Bank of High Point

EVER SINCE the establishment of the Commercial National Bank, nearly twenty-five years ago, it has been the chief aim of the Directors and Officers, aside from affording absolute safety for deposits, to provide facilities and equipment which will assure our customers the maximum of convenience and satisfaction in the handling of their financial affairs.

Pursuant to this policy, two of the latest time-saving devices have been purchased for the keeping of accounts and the rendering of statements, which we believe, will be far superior to the old method
